

Two Negroes Held As Suspects in Ohio Girl Murder Case

Coroner Finds Heel and Nail Imprint on Child's Face and Believes She Was Kicked to Death

Special Dispatch to The Tribune
STEBENVILLE, Ohio, March 27.—Four negroes, arrested soon after discovery of the brutal murder of eleven-year-old Frances South near her home in Adena last Thursday night, were brought to the Jefferson County jail here this evening. Under grilling by prosecuting Attorney Ray Carpenter, one of them admitted he and his companions had been in Adena the day of the murder. They were placed in separate cells, under extra guard. The victim of the crime fought fiercely for her life and honor, and probably was kicked to death, Coroner T. H. Kirk said to-day upon completion of his investigation.

According to Coroner Kirk, his investigations revealed that the girl died from a fractured skull. It was his opinion that she had been kicked in the head. He said he found evidence of a terrific struggle. The coroner explained that a heel mark and the imprint of nails were found. The blow on the head killed her, he said. The cord with which the girl's hands had been tied behind her back was identified as a part of her hat by Mrs. W. F. South, mother of the child, who is confined to her bed with influenza. It was first believed that the cord was from the hat of a soldier. The hat is missing and efforts to find it have proved futile.

Two foreigners, whose names have not been revealed, were arrested by a posse headed by the Rev. A. N. Ashburn, pastor of the Long Run Methodist Episcopal Church, late last night. The men were taken into custody at Herrick, four miles south of Adena. Practically every person residing in the vicinity of Adena attended funeral services for the child to-day. The Rev. A. N. Ashburn, who led one of the posses, conducted the services in the Long Run Methodist Episcopal Church.

Krohnberg Held for Trial "Last Card Louis" Waives Hearing in Fraud Case

Louis Krohnberg, wealthy waist manufacturer, sometimes called "Last Card Louis," waived further examination when the hearing of the case against him was resumed before Justice Kernechan, of Special Sessions, sitting as a committing magistrate, yesterday.

Justice Kernechan held Krohnberg for trial, continuing his bail at $1,000. Krohnberg is accused of violating the section of the penal law relating to fraud in a game of chance. His arrest followed the now famous Broadway "stud" poker tourney in which, it is said, marked cards were used and more than $500,000 changed hands. Counsel for Krohnberg took this action in order to expedite the case.

Hardwood Decision May Spur Crusade On Price Fixing

Wholesale Prosecutions by Palmer Predicted; Trade Organizations Admit the Practice of "Stabilizing"

From The Tribune's Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON, March 27.—Wholesale prosecutions by the Department of Justice of members of various industrial organizations throughout the country soon may be instituted, it was learned to-day, on the basis of the recent decision in the Federal district court at Memphis, enjoining more than 300 members of the American Hardwood Manufacturers' Association from continuing certain activities held by the court to be in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Apprehending that the department might seize upon this decision as a basis for a general campaign against associations of this kind in other industries, attorneys and other representatives of such organizations have flocked to Washington in the last few days seeking light as to the department's plans. Although refusing to indicate what course it intends to pursue regarding individual associations, officials of the Department have declared it to be their view that the decision is applicable to a large number of such trade bodies engaged in circulating among their members information concerning prices and market conditions. The ruling of the district judge, Judge McCall, was based on the assumption that the method of exchanging "market information" among the members of the Hardwood Manufacturers' Association was for the purpose of keeping the market stabilized through a control of prices. The temporary injunction granted prohibited specifically the following acts alleged against the defendants:

Making agreements to eliminate competition.
Exchanging predictions that high prices would continue.
Distributing matter intended to keep up or enhance prices.
Discussing prices that have been charged or are to be charged; and other acts.

Representatives of various industrial trade organizations now in Washington declare privately that a large part of the work of their organizations in the past have been conducted along similar lines. These men represent such organizations as associations of coal operators, cannery associations, wholesale jobbers and the like.
While it is indicated at the Department of Justice that the Memphis decision is being studied by officials there with deep interest, the various assistants of the Attorney General decline to predict what course is to be taken, or whether any general campaign of prosecutions will follow.

Deadlocked Jury Discharged

Disagreed Over Negro Accused of Killing Patrolman

The jury which tried the case against Isaac Bradford, negro, charged with the murder of Patrolman John J. McCormick, was discharged by Judge McIntyre in General Sessions yesterday. It had been unable to reach an agreement. Bradford was remanded to the Tombs and probably will be tried again shortly.

Former Supreme Court Justice Goff, who defended the negro, offered the District Attorney's office a plea of guilty to second degree murder in behalf of his client. Mr. Swann declined to accept this plea, announcing his purpose to punish persons who killed policemen in the performance of their duties to the limit of the law.
George Barr McCutcheon, the novelist, was a member of the jury.

THE FINE ART OF DRESS IN WHICH IT IS ENGAGED

All of the talent and resources of the Bonwit Teller & Co. institution are focused and concentrated upon the one subject—Feminine Fashions. There is nothing to detract from the one absorbing theme, no disturbing elements to interrupt the current of thought and work toward the single objective. It is only by such singleness of purpose that real fashion achievements—worthy of the name—may be accomplished. It is the reason why Bonwit Teller & Co. apparel is elevated to a plane unapproachable by other methods.

The ready-for-wear apparel sponsored by this shop is distinguished by many tokens, which remove it from the usual hackneyed types. Many models are made in the private workrooms of this shop. Some are designed especially for and confined exclusively to us. Our Paris Organization, at 19 Rue d'Antin, keeps us in intimate touch with the fashions developed by the "Haute Couture" of Paris. Our representatives, of whom there are always some in Paris, collaborate with the great French Houses, often procuring models shown at no other shop in America. Other operations extend into England, Scotland and the Far East.

A most important phase of the Bonwit Teller & Co. activities is the making to special order individualized types of apparel created by talented designers who have a keen sympathy and appreciation for the social value of attire that reflects elegance and simplicity, dignity and refinement—designers who possess the rare gift of interpreting the mode in personalized versions with the debonnaire spirit of youth.

A newly created French Room (located on the third floor) has been dedicated to special order dressmaking.

In addition to a highly specialized collection of ready-for-wear sports apparel and riding togs—special orders will be executed from the most exclusive and unusual imported fabrics for every sport or equestrienne occasion.

Special orders also executed in negligees, hostess and tea gowns, hand-made trousseau undergarments and handmade blouses.

Throughout the establishment are Suites of Private Chambers—devoted to the display of Frocks and Gowns for women and the "jeune fille," Millinery, Boudoir Apparel, Trousseau Undergarments and kindred things—wherein patrons may make selection in privacy and seclusion.

The Bonwit Teller & Co. staff of associate artists and craftworkers are constantly engaged in research at the great museums. And, through the courtesy of the curators, precious documentary garments of a bygone race or age are studied in the archives and vaults for inspiration in the development of new ideas carried out in the private workrooms and studios of this shop.

Introducing a New Color— "CREVETTE" TROTTEUR HATS
